SNOWFALL CREATES WINTER WONDERLAND YESTERDAY

A heavy and wet snow began to fall yesterday afternoon and by evening had transformed the entire countryside into a real winter-wonderland. Trees and bushes were covered with large fleecy snow flakes which really made a very artistic decoration. Highways were made difficult to travel on. Trains were delayed. In the evening the setting sun rays created a rather weird light which however, was pretty.

FINAL DATE SET FOR ACCEPTING DAIRY FEED SUBSIDY PAYMENT

The final date for accepting Dairy Feed Subsidy Payment Applications for payment of October, November and December production is February 29, 1944. Applications for dairy feed subsidy for the month of January production must be made on or before March 31, 1944.

Because legislation on the Dairy Feed Subsidy program is now in Congress and there has been as yet no definite action taken regarding future payments, many farmers are in doubt as to whether payments are still available.

Applications for payments after the final dates will be very difficult to obtain.

Hundreds Attend Program at Which Medal Is awarded To Mother For Missing Son

Hundreds of friends of Lt. Oliver Lauffer of Mokena who has been missing in action over Hannover, Germany since last fall, attended an Air Service medal presentation held at the Mokena school auditorium Wednesday evening.

The program was sponsored by the Mokena VFW Post 725 with Capt. Andrew Quam, CMP Army Service Forces, 6th Service Command, 3rd District and Lt. Howard W. Hudson of the same Command representing the U. S. Army.

In his opening address, Commander Glen Peterson of the William Martin VFW post made the following remarks:

"This event this evening possibly is the first of its kind ever to be held in this vicinity by Executive order from the President and Commander in Chief of the Army of the United States. Lt. Oliver Lauffer has been awarded the Air Medal which will be presented to his mother, Mrs. Florence Steele this evening by an officer of the United States Army service."

"Seated on the platform here are representatives of the U. S. Army and other organizations of Mokena. We are here at this time to honor Lt. Lauffer and to express appreciation to his mother for the services he has rendered our country. Although he has been reported as missing in action, we have sufficient reason to believe that he is safe. Wm. Martin Post 725 VFW and its Auxiliary and all the other organizations are highly honored by the privilege of helping to arrange this event."

At the conclusion of Commander Peterson's opening remarks, Rev. Wm. Riemann, pastor of the St. John's Evangelical church of Mokena delivered the main address. Rev. Mr. Riemann said in part:

"I rejoice with the mother of Lt. Oliver Lauffer and the people of this community because of the honor and distinction merited by one of our young citizens. This award is a natural sequence to the Good Citizenship award granted to the Lieutenant on graduating from the Mokena High School, and a natural sequence, too, to his action when he volunteered for service to his country when its existence was threatened."

"Patriotism is the making of many young men in these days. This is what the poet, Sir Walter Scott had in mind when he said: 'Breathes there a man with soul so dead'

Who Never to himself hath said: 'This is my own, my native land.'"

"Thousands of boys in this great land of ours have found in the love of country something worth disciplining themselves for. Yes, worth sacrificing and dying for. The great teacher of the Christian religion said: 'Greater Love hath no man than this, than that a man lay down his life for his friends.' Many boys have found a sort of second birth as they have left home and civilian comforts to stand in places of danger to defend their country."

Following Rev. Riemann's address, Capt. Quam, a veteran of World War 1 having served as a Front line Commander in France, made a brief address in which he paid special honor to Lt. Lauffer. Capt. Quam in his address made the following remarks:

"It is my privilege tonight to pay special honor to a young man who won a great personal victory, at a high cost to himself. His achievement is a memorable one. In battle he showed qualities of leadership, loyalty and courage that have well earned him the recognition of his country."

"His is the sort of achievement, meritorious even beyond the call of duty—that has won victories for America in the hills of Italy, on the icy slopes of the Aleutians, in the jungles of the Pacific. It is the magnificent story of a whole generation of young men who are showing their courage every day in battles all around the world."

"The price is high; it is bound to be higher, as American battlefields widen and the fighting becomes more intense. But there is something for us to learn in the valor with which he paid it. He was not born to fight; but when he had to, he learned to fight, and the record shows he learned well. He did not choose the scene of battle, nor the weapons, nor the tactics; he did not choose the hour of victory, he did not elect to become a hero. He did what was expected of him and he did it so well that we are paying special honor to him. What is discomfort in our daily lives compared with discomfort of nights of jungle fighting? What is the sacrifice of a few hours of leisure compared

Noted General Kin of Late Frankfort Judge

A letter address to the late John M. Clark former Frankfort school principal and Justice of the Peace, was received by his widow, Mrs. Minnie Clark recently. It was from a cousin in Ohio who had not known of Mr. Clark's death, and revealed that Lt. General Mark Clark leader of the American forces in Italy, was also a cousin of John Clark. When Lt. Gen. Clark's name first appeared in the headlines John Clark remarked to his wife that he had a cousin by that name and wondered if he were the same person.

The incident was forgotten and it was not until after Mr. Clark's death in November that this information was received. If Mr. Clark were living today he would undoubtedly be very proud of this relationship.

FIRE OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN WRECKS ORLAND HOME

Fire of undetermined origin started at the Louis Nicolai home in Orland Park about 9:15 Sunday morning. Mr. Nicolai was outdoors at the time he discovered the smoke and fire. The Fire Dept. and neighbors responded to the alarm in time to save most of the furniture and possessions which were carried out of the house. The damage was confined mostly to the rooms upstairs which is covered by insurance.

with sacrifice of warmth and safety on those windy hills around the Mediterranean? What can we do that will stand up beside the achievement of this young man?

"That is the thought which puts meaning into such a ceremony as this. We are honoring a young man for achieving a place among America's heroes. The next time you think the war is pretty hard on you, remember this opportunity which you have had to witness an award to an American hero. Then live up to the opportunity. That is the greatest thing you can do for him. That's the greatest thing you can do for his country."

Lt. Hudson was next introduced by Capt. Quam and he in turn made the Presentation address and the awarding of the Air Medal. Mrs. Steele was escorted to the stage by Mrs. Leslie Clark, representing the Women's Service Committee and Mrs. Fred Hentsch representing the VFW Aux. Although Mrs. Steele was visibly effected by her emotions, she withstood the trying moments very heroically and expressed her thanks and appreciation to the Army men for the medal and for the honor conferred upon her missing son.

The program concluded with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner led by Walter Olson with Miss Catherine Reid accompanying at piano. The closing prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Riemann.

The medal was placed on display at the close of the program and was viewed by those in attendance.

Norval Robinson who graduated from the navy radio school at Madison, Wis., this week and has a five day furlough and Robert Clark of Rockford attended the program.

A feature of the capping ceremony will be the reciting in unison of the pledge which each Cadet Nurse makes on enrolling in the Corps and which binds her to make her services available in essential civilian or military nursing for the duration of the war. Friends and relatives of the students to be capped are cordially invited to attend the exercises.

Miss Cooper graduated from the Orland Park high school in June, 1943 enrolled in the United States Cadet Nurse Corps last summer at Silver Cross Hospital School of Nursing and began her nursing course in August 24 1943. In recognition of the patriotic service they are rendering while in training and their pledge to be of service until the war ends Cadet Nurses are being prepared for a useful lifetime profession at no expense to themselves. They also receive cash allowances of $15 to $30 per month depending on their stage of advancement in the school. Students previously enrolled in the School were given the privilege of joining the Corps as Junior or Senior Cadets and most of those at Silver Cross did so.

Anthony Geiser Meets Death During Storm

Anthony J. Geiser, 58 years old McCarthy Road, Lemont township, was killed about 10 o'clock last Thursday night when the North American Cereal truck he was driving was struck by a north bound Alton passenger train at the 13th street railroad crossing in Lockport.

The body and wreckage was dragged for almost a block before the train could be brought to a halt. There were no witnesses to the accident.

A victim of that night's blizzard it is believed Geiser was unable to climb the 11th street hill with his half-ton truck which is usually used by the firm's truck drivers. Finding 11th street too slippery, it is believed that he traveled over Commerce street to 13th street with hopes of overcoming the icy conditions there. Arriving at 13th street, he apparently backed the truck across the tracks to give him a start up the hill. He apparently failed to notice that he was on the tracks because of the blinding snow.

The train was held up for more than a half hour before the tracks were cleared. F. F. Manshey of Bloomington was the engineer and R. N. Steele of Bloomington was the conductor.

Lockport police were called to the scene and they in turn notified the Lemont authorities. The body was taken to the Goodale Funeral home where an inquest was conducted by Dr. E. A. Kingston, coroner at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The body was taken to the Gerharz funeral home at Lemont. Funeral services were held Tuesday morning with burial in the Sag cemetery.

Mr. Geiser, who was born in Aurora, had farmed in the vicinity of Mokena for 27 years, moving to Lemont township in 1938. He farmed there for several years, entering the employe of the Cereal company two years ago.

Surviving are the widow, Margaret; a son Raymond, with the Army Air force in Texas his mother, Mrs. Eliz. Geiser of Argo, and two sisters, Mrs. Will Krempel and Mrs. Mary Forkar of Argo.

'WORKING PEOPLE' DOMINATE ACTIVITIES OF ELDON, IOWA

Organized Labor Usually Bests Business Group in Elections; Citizens Are Proud of School System.

By BARROW LYONS

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is one of a series of articles written for this paper by Barrow Lyons, staff correspondent of Western Newspaper Union. He has just completed an extended trip through the nation and in these reports gives his first-hand impressions of what rural America is thinking as we enter the third year of war and the first weeks of a presidential election year. Any opinions expressed are the writer's and not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

ELDON, IOWA.—Two worlds meet in this Iowa town—the world of organized labor and the business world. But labor runs this town of 1,700 people on the banks of the Des Moines river where the Sac and Fox Indians once lived.

Eldon is a railroad town—a division point on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway where the main line intersects the Des Moines and Keokuk branch. The railway came there to get coal. A majority of Eldon people work for the Rock Island. They are somewhat clannish, very independent and understand the importance of organization.

As a result they dominate the elections. The mayor is a railroader. So are four of the five members of the city council, three of the five members of the school board, and several of the city officials.

And although Eldon people are traditionally Republicans, the railroaders are now almost 100 per cent New Dealers.

Merchants and other business men of Eldon form the political opposition. They are known locally as the County Fair group. The fair has been discontinued for the duration, but in peace times it is the third largest fair in the state, being surpassed only by the Iowa state fair and the Clay county fair at Spencer, said to be the largest county fair in the world. This great fair seems to be a compensation for the business man's political eclipse in Eldon.

An examination of this New Deal town in which the working people dominate reveals advantages and disadvantages. There is no hotel, but a number of the railroad men take lodgers, where one can get a room. The fastidious traveler would not like the accommodations, but the beds are clean and one can get a warm bath in the hall bathroom. And the railroader's wife who runs the establishment makes up in friendliness what her hostelry lacks in modern decorations and conveniences.

There are no modern fitted out restaurants. But there are eating places where one can buy well-prepared food, and plenty of it at moderate prices.

Many of the people who live in Eldon own their homes—and assessments are low. There is no real estate tax, except the school tax, for most of the expenses of government are met from the profit the city derives from distributing electric current. From these charges all

I wanted. Now that's something. Eldon is a fine place to bring up my two little boys where there is such a good school. I'm paying $16 a month rent for a modern five-room house. In Kansas City the same house would cost me $35 to $40 a month.

Neighbors Are Ready To Help Distressed

"Anyone in distress usually is looked after by the neighbors—we don't need charity. For those who have grief, there is always sympathy. I've seldom seen drunkenness around here. This is a good town for working men. You hear that wherever you go."

William H. Sapp, member of the Switchmen's Union of North America, was asked why Eldon remained New Deal.

"Well, we remember that the New Deal helped us get out of the depression and get work," he explained. "This wage deal that's coming up now is not against the government. The men are working twice as hard as they did before the war and getting the same money, and the companies are making twice as much."

"I'm registered as a Republican, but I'm for the New Deal. I don't think there's a railroad man who likes John L. Lewis as a man, but they admire his stand because they know that if the miners are licked, we're all sunk. There are quite a few miners living around here, and they're about the poorest paid workers there are—and they work hard, too. You take a mining town and it has the poorest teachers there are."

It is easy to understand why most of the business men of Eldon are not very vocal in opposition to the New Deal. Frank Davis, director of the First National bank, however, was willing to voice criticism.

"One thing that we're blessed with, brother," he exclaimed, "is that we're living in a land where there's free speech. There is a great deal of unrest among the people. They wonder what's going on. This enormous spending—enormous taxation. There's a great deal of talk on how much labor is going to control the powers that be."

"When I try to look forward, I kind of look at a high wall. I read a great deal and try to keep posted, but I can't see where we're headed."

"All power to Mr. Roosevelt for the good things he's done. We've seen them in this town. But there's such a thing as a man becoming drunk with power."

Eldon remembers the curse of unemployment more bitterly than most small towns. Many of its young men were gathered into the local National Youth administration project, and it was the grief of the Eldon people that these boys were contented to make the NYA their way of life—to hope for nothing better.

But it is their pride to have seen these boys make splendid fighters in the armed forces. Several already have given their lives.

As Eldon, Iowa, Views It . . .

There are quite a few coal miners who work in the strip coal mines around Eldon, but not nearly as many as used to live there before the mines at Laddsdale across the river caught fire and caused such great loss about 30 years ago.

Those were the days, however, when Eldon flourished commercially. There were more people then to patronize the business establishments. Across the tracks there was a settlement which no longer exists—a wide open town with its saloons and dives, and two hotels. As this block deteriorated, and the buildings were vacated, they were demolished, and this rowdy block is now only a memory. "There's very little moral turpitude in Eldon now," one old railroader remarked, and he meant it.

Here's Conservation That Is Gay, Smart

IT IS not necessary to make our economies so dull that they depress every one. Let's make them gay and attractive to give us a lift and a bit of a challenge too. This old rocker is an example.

A saw and a wood chisel were used for removing projections and rockers. An old quilt was found for padding and the feathers from an old bolster were packed into a thick seat cushion to raise the seat which has been lowered by removing the rockers. This required a yard and a quarter of ticking. Four and one-half yards of inexpensive chintz in a bold, modern pattern did the rest.

But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, who was pilot of the grizzled old Flying Fortress known as "The Swoose," which escaped from Clark Field, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Old 99, a Flying Fortress, is struck down before it can get off the ground. Later, Lieutenant Kurtz bicycles to the scene of the bombing. He finds Old 99 a pile of junk. He sees eight boys of her crew—his boys—lying in an irregular line. They had been killed as they ran for shelter. He counts them, pats each on the back, and talks to each as if they were still alive. Then he goes to where Tex is lying, at the end of the sprawling line, and makes a promise.

CHAPTER II

"We weren't licked; it was only the beginning, and from now on we would get to work, all of us, and win. I told him that whatever plane they gave me later, Old 99 would be flying right in the formation, and on night missions I would always see Old 99's wing lights beside me, and know that she was protecting me with her crossfire, knocking down Zeros that tried to climb onto my tail. Yes, maybe that's where the story begins.

"The 19th Bombardment Group consisted of thirty-five beautiful shiny new Flying Fortresses, of which Old 99 was one—we had picked her up at the Boeing factory just before she came off the line. Of the Fortress series, they were D models—then the latest and finest in the business. About a dozen of our thirty-five were down at Del Monte Field on the southern island of Mindanao. The rest were at the main bomber base, Clark Field, about forty-five miles from Manila, which was the headquarters of General MacArthur, the Commander in Chief. Our immediate Air Corps commander, General Brereton, was constantly visiting us at Clark.

"On November 27 General Brereton put us on the alert. He had received the same State Department warning they got at Pearl Harbor—that war might be days or maybe hours away. Within the limit of what we had, the Air Force was ready for it. The General was making all the reconnaissance he could, and had picked his targets in Formosa, from where we knew the blow would come. Our machine guns were in place and loaded.

"As fast as our facilities would permit, our shiny aluminum Queens were getting their coat of dull war paint, and I was notified that Old 99 was scheduled to get her camouflage on December eighth.

"That's a date we who were in the Philippines will never forget. With you it's December seventh, but don't be confused, for it's really the same day, only because the Philippines are on the other side of the international date line, we give it a different number.

"The Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor at exactly 7:35 o'clock in the morning Honolulu time. At that same instant it was 4:35 o'clock in the morning of December eighth in the Philippines—a few hours before dawn reached us. I was asleep in the nipa shack which was the officers' quarters on Clark Field.

"I got up at seven as usual and, stumbling in sleepily to shave, snapped on my portable as I always did to get the early morning news broadcast by Don Bell in Manila. By the way, one of the first things the Japs did when they entered the town two weeks later was to shoot the poor devil. In even more rapid-fire style than usual he told us the big news—that the Japs had hit Hawaii.

"We gulped breakfast, and then all the pilots rushed over to operations meeting in the squadron's operations tent, where Major Don Gibbs went over the situation with us. I can see him now, trim, alert, boyish-looking for his rank and years—if he'd lived out the war he would surely be a brigadier general by now. He was as shrewd as he was modest. It was his second tour of duty out East, and he knew the lay of the land.

"Well, gentlemen, this is it," he said. Then he stepped over to the open flap and faced us. "If they've hit Hawaii they can't miss hitting us. I can't tell you when it will come, but it will come. However, I can tell you where it will come from. Here he raised the canvas flap with one hand and pointed up and to the north. 'It will be from right over that hill,' he said.

"We looked at the hill, tree-clad, velvety, beautiful in the sunrise. Beyond it was Iba Field. Still farther was the China Sea and then came Formosa, the black forbidden hunk of something I had looked down on the week before.

"As we left, Gibbs said: 'You're on the stand-by. Orders will be coming through fast all morning.' Then I went back to Old 99. She was one of the few which hadn't been loaded with bombs, as she had been scheduled for camouflage that morning. Only the orders that now came seemed conflicting as those final hours slipped away.

"First came one countermarching the camouflage. Seemed something was afoot, and they couldn't wait for it. Instead we were to load bombs, so we taxied over toward the ammunition dump. Then Bill Cooke, who was to be running back and forth all morning with conflicting orders, came screaming down the field. 'Take her back to the hangar; they want the camouflage finished by all means!'

"Presently came another order for me and two other planes of this 30th Squadron to unload our bombs and insert cameras. Nothing more than that, but it was clear they were preparing us now for reconnaissance over Formosa.

"I didn't then know that our little field only reflected what was going on at Manila Headquarters, where our Air Force General Brereton had been up long before dawn and was at a big conference all morning. Of course it's very easy to be wise after the event.

"And of course, even though Pearl Harbor had been attacked, our American Congress had not yet declared war, and perhaps it was too great a responsibility for our Philippine command to strike back when someone might argue that war did not exist technically.

"General Brereton knew our position at Clark Field was so dangerous that if we did not at once strike at Formosa, we could probably never strike at all. He wanted permission to make a reconnaissance flight over there, so we could at least see if the Japanese were making preparations to strike us. Sure, now that they had hit Pearl Harbor, it would be only a minor neutrality violation to fly close enough to Formosa to take a few pictures.

"Consequently the turnaround on this wasn't complete; Headquarters said, well, maybe this would be possible. Wait and see.

"Back on the stand-by with Old 99, I couldn't then know this was why I had been ordered to jerk her bombs, reload her with cameras, and rush the camouflage in the hope that permission would soon come. I only knew big things were moving, and suddenly I thought of my little portable radio. Why not find out what I could? So I sent Tex back to the barracks to get it.

"When he returned, I had fair reception when I took it outside the steel hangar door.

"It crackled with rumors—some already true, some not yet true. They reported a big concentration of Jap ships off Luzon—Manila was expecting an air raid every minute—bombs were reported already dropping on Clark Field. I understand that early false report reached the States.

"It was curious," said Kurtz, "standing right outside that hangar door, looking at Clark Field in the mid-morning sunshine and hearing the radio in my hand saying that bombs were dropping on it. It was crazy, and yet it made us apprehensive.

"A classmate of mine at Randolph Field who had been flying one of two old Douglas's we used for transportation to Manila had just pulled up and got out, and he was listening beside me. Now he said, nervously, 'Why in hell don't we get out of here and save these airplanes?' I could see he was thinking not only of the planes, but of our necks as well.

"I said to him, 'What the hell, now, old man, take it easy—we're under orders.' But I was getting jumpy myself.

"Then quick came another order—early chow for us pilots and our navigators at eleven o'clock. So I told Tex that Eddie Oliver (my navigator) and I were going to shoot on up to the mess hall, eat fast, and get over to the operations tent quick and find out what plans they had lined up for us. Meanwhile Tex was to oversee the unloading of the bombs and the replacing of them with cameras in the bomb bays.

"I'd never seen a Japanese plane except those slides of them they throw on the screen in plane-recognition courses at school.

"I left the mess hall and ran into Tex, looking for me. He had everything under control with Old 99, the crew was standing by, and were there any more orders?

"I told him not yet, I was going over to the operations tent and would be back with them in a very few minutes. Good old Tex, standing there, apparently casual and yet really alert as a fox terrier, getting every word I said. A fine-looking kid, twenty-two years old, he was for me those extra eyes, ears, and hands that every co-pilot should be.

"I was worrying about what would happen if while I was in that operations tent, scout planes might report a Jap bomber formation headed down toward us from Formosa. I trusted our fighter pilots at Iba, but—you never could tell—a few bombers might slip through to Clark.

"So I said to Tex: 'Now look, boy—here's the dope. Make no mistake, I don't want any slip-ups. Up to now it's been all play-acting and Boy Scout stuff, but this war has really begun. If we get word in Operations that we're about to be hit here on Clark, we can get Old 99 off the field from where she is, without the usual runway procedure. So watch for me to come pedaling toward you on my bike from operations tent. If I drop my arm as you see me come over the top of the runway crest, that means I want the motors started by the time I get there.'

"Okay, Frank," he said quietly. No saluting or heel-snapping—there's no room for much of that in the Air Force. Then he assured me that the men had all been sent to chow, the engines warmed and checked. Now he turned, and went on back to Old 99.

"The operations tent was crowded with about forty pilots and navigators waiting for briefing to begin. As we waited, I snapped on my radio and we all listened to Manila. This time Don Bell was really packing it across in his excited delivery. Yet we didn't know that the precious minutes had all slipped away and only seconds were left. We didn't know that General Brereton had got permission from General MacArthur for us to take off on our photographic expedition over Formosa, to see if just possibly the Japanese might be making preparations to attack us. We didn't realize that General Brereton had already rushed to the telephone, and was even at this instant clicking the receiver, trying to get through to us with this order.

"Now Don Bell was saying that bombs really were dropping on Clark Field—he was broadcasting from the top of one of Manila's tallest buildings, and from there he could see big plumes of smoke rising from Clark Field.

"We all smiled at this. We didn't know that he, from Manila, could see around the little hill over in the direction of Iba Field, and that these plumes of smoke were from burning P-40's there. The Japanese were already tearing our American fighter force to pieces. But we smiled, and were listening for whatever crazy thing Don Bell would say next—General Brereton still trying to get through to us on the phone—when a private, standing just outside the flap of our operations tent, said, in an awe-struck, admiring voice:

"Oh, gee! Look at the pretty Navy formation."

"It froze me. I could hear a drone. I think it froze all of us. The next second, Lieutenant Lee Coats, who was standing nearest the tent flap, stepped to the opening. We watched him look up.

"Navy, hell! Here they come!"

"We turned over tables in the confusion of piling out of that tent, but we're not yet frightened rats, we're still human beings, still organized.

"There they came, the drone rising, right over the hill as Don Gibbs had predicted they would—in an enormous V of V's, three V's in all and about twenty-five Mitsubishi bombers in each V, at about 18,000 to 22,000 feet altitude—coming right at us.

"I heard a scuffling and looked around to see that I was alone except for Lieutenant Glenn Rice—he'd been detailed as photographic officer and was grinding away with his camera at that V of V's. The rest had all taken shelter in a big drainage ditch near by.

"I stood there because I thought it would be five or ten seconds more before they came to their bomb-release line, and I ought to be the glint of their bombs turning over as they came out of their bomb bays—they seem almost to pause under the plane before they start down—several seconds surely before I saw that glint, and then would be time to jump for the ditch. Meanwhile I wanted to see what kind of pattern this formation planned to lay down over this field, just as, many times before—back in the dry bed of Muroc Lake in California, our practice bombing range in the Mojave Desert—I'd watched a formation of our own to see how good they were.

JESUS TEACHES TRUE
GREATNESS

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:33-39; 10:13-16, 42-45.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many.—Mark 10:45.

Ambition to be great is not wrong—provided one has a proper conception of greatness, and seeks it in a right way. Every one of us should be our very best, not for selfish reasons, but for God's glory.

The disciples were earnest and eager to have a place of honor with the Lord in glory, but even in that holy purpose they became selfish and argumentative. Jesus gives several marks of a truly great man.

Greatness Means Being—

I. Not First, but Last (9:33-35).

The way of the world is to seek the place of "No. 1 man"—to be looked up to, honored, and served by all. True greatness takes the last place, the place of a servant; and lo, God regards that as the first place.

It is not a question of timid diffidence, or self-effacement, but a willingness to take the humble place in order to serve all.

II. Not Proud, but Humble (9:36, 37).

"Great" people of this world have no time for children. Let them be cared for by servants, teachers, anyone at all, but not by their "distinguished" parents.

But Jesus said that the one who set aside human pride and received a child with humility of heart and mind—and in His name—received the Lord who gave them life—spiritual as well as physical—and is interested in them; in fact, He is with them and hence when we receive them in His name, He is there!

III. Not Exclusive, but Co-operative (9:38, 39).

John, quick to apprehend spiritual truth, saw in the teaching of Christ concerning the little child the condemnation of something he had done.

The man who casts out demons, or who gives the disciple of Jesus a cup of water, in His name—that is, with true faith in Christ, and in His power, and for His glory—must be a believer. He may not belong to our group or circle, he may not speak our language, he may not use our methods, but if he is serving Christ we should not forbid him or speak evil of him. You and I may not like one another's appearance, or voice, or methods, but let us love and co-operate with one another for Christ's sake!

IV. Not Important, but Approachable (10:13-16).

Some who think they are great, pride themselves on being hard to reach—protected from the rabble and their problems by secretaries and servants.

The disciples had built up such an idea of the importance of Christ in their own minds. He had never given them any ground for it either by word or deed.

So the man who is truly great follows in the Master's footsteps. He is approachable, kind, has time for simple folk and little children. If that isn't true of a man he is not great—no matter what he may think of himself or what others may say about him.

V. Not a Supervisor, but a Servant (10:42-44).

Christianity is not organized after the manner of secular government (v. 42). Much of the mischief that has come to pass in the church is the result of "running the church" as an organization, when it should be allowed to develop as a living organism.

The way up is down. That is always true in the spiritual realm. The Son of man came not to be ministered unto but to minister, yea, to give His very life (v. 45). Shall not those who bear His name walk the same path of humble self-denial?

Anyone who observes with even a little care knows that the church of Jesus Christ is hindered most seriously by the presence of pride and selfish ambition. Some people will not work unless they can rule.

Are there then no Christians who humbly serve the Lord? Yes, praise His name, there are many, and wherever they are found they are the salt of the earth.

VI. Not Unselfish, but Sacrificial (10:45).

The world is full of people who want to be served. Their little personalities swell with pride and pleasure if someone else cringes and bows, and serves.

There is nothing commendable about being served. The great and good thing is to serve.

The Son of man—Himself the Lord of glory, the One who might have called legions of angels to do His will—came "not to be ministered unto but to minister." That service meant going about doing good even when He was exhausted and worn. But it meant far more than that, for it took Him to the cross where He gave "his life a ransom" for us. Are we ready to learn of Him?

SERVICE MEN'S NEWS

Dec. 16, 1943

San Diego, Cal.

Dear Folks:

Received the very swell Christmas gift box. I can assure you it makes a fellow feel much closer to home to know that folks back home are thinking of all us boys. It is a feeling that can't be explained by my simple way of writing. I'll just have to rely on an old stand by:

"Thanks a Million". Folks I am out here in the so called beautiful California. It may be beautiful, but it lacks the good old Christmas spirit. This season of the year one looks forward to cold weather and possible snow; one also looks forward to the many stores, street and home Christmas decorations; which are not to be had out here. Another thing there isn't the mad scramble shopping done here as it is at home —It all adds up to the fact, there is no place like our section of the country. I'll take it anytime, anyway and under any conditions.

I hope you do not think I'm complaining. I am telling you exactly the way I feel about good old Illinois. It is far beyond my desire to complain to anyone for I know that many of my friends of Tinley Park are in much more unpleasant spots than I am. My only hope is that next Christmas will find them all as close to home as I am now. I also hope that they will have as Happy a Christmas as I am going to have.

Once again, I'll thank you for the very swell Christmas box. Wishing you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Sincerely yours,
Wallace Mohr, S 2-c; San Diego Cal.

Dear Friends:

I hope this letter finds you in the best of health. I'm sorry I haven't written oftener but I am kept pretty busy. I expect to move from here in a couple weeks when I finish school. We are supposed to get home for a few days next month. I'll sure be glad to see Tinley again after 7 months. I've been getting the Tinley Park Times regularly every week. It has been getting torn where the paper is not wrapped but it is still well to read about what is happening back home. The real reason I'm writing this is to thank you for the wonderful Christmas package I received yesterday from your very fine organization. I can use everything in it. The weather here is something like it is there, one day it cold and the next it mild. We had 2 or 3 inches of snow last week but its all gone now except in places where the sun doesn't hit it. We certainly are busy trying to learn everything we have to in school so we can graduate on time. I am lying on my bunk writing this so I guess you'll have a time reading it. I used to write my letters at the Service Club but there is usually some sort of mesical program going on there and I have too much trouble trying to concentrate on a letter. My wife is coming out here next week for the holidays so I hope to have a good time. I liked the picture of the Honor Roll you sent with the box. I hope everyone has a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Yours truly,
Melvin Harcourt

Dear Mrs. Chapman and friends:

Received your lovely gift the other day and was quite thrilled with it. I think it was very kind of you to remember me. My room mates and I enjoyed it very much.

I am very pleased with the Navy. We generally have two lectures a day, 1 hr. of drill and twice a week 2 hrs. of physical ed. and a movie or two, this makes our day very full.

I graduate from Boot school in about 2 weeks. We are all looking forward to that and our shore liberty which we get next Saturday.

We expect to take in a little of New York then because we haven't been allowed off the station yet. Well must close now, thanks again.

Cordially,

A-s Marjorie Hagedorn, New York N. Y.
PS. Please excuse me not writing sooner.

Somewhere in Italy

Dear Members:

Greetings from Italy! I received the Christmas package you sent me. It arrived two days before Christmas and thanks a million for the remembrance. I assure you every item received was sincerely appreciated and has come in handy during the past few weeks, so kindly accept my belated acknowledgment for your thoughtfulness.

News of interest is scarce since the newspapers back home keep you posted on latest developments of the "Fighting 5th" leaving me nothing to comment on with the exception that by the time you receive this letter I'm apt to be in the ancient city of Rome.

Will close for now with the sincere wish that all of you back home are in the best of health. Hoping to see you soon. I remain

Sincerely,

Sgt. Dave Tierney; APO 4642 care postmaster New York.

Dear Friends:

I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for the Christmas package. Everything of which was useful. Thanks again.

Mrs. H. Kruspe, Chr.

Somewhere in England January 22, 1944

Dear Mrs. Kruspe:

Received the package that contained all the "Goodies" an American soldier could ask for and am very thankful in being the one who received one.

A package to a soldier is just like candy to a child, for in the Army one has quite a few pals and one is always willing to share things, so everyone lends a hand and it doesn't take long until the package is completely gone, just like a child's candy is, for he always wants just a little more and then the next thing he knows it's all gone to. In fact the boys said to write home and tell you thanks a million as everything was just fine. So here's their "thanks" and my Thank You too.

Now I am somewhere in England and really love it over here, for the people are much more friendly, and the "girls" are mighty sweet to, just like those back home.

So far I've had three 48-hr. passes and enjoyed every one to the fullest degree and am living in hopes of getting my 10 day furlough as most boys have gotten already. Still have my same job which is Motor Transportation Dispatcher and I really think it pretty nice.

I'm in the best of health and feeling just fine. Give all the boys back home My Best Wishes and Good Luck, altho maybe I myself may need lots of it soon.

Well presume I must close and get some shut eye, as its now 10:30 pm. and past our bed time.

Sincerely yours, Cpl. Emil M. Meir.

It's wartime wisdom to take care of your electric iron!

Keep cord away from hot iron. Plug cord into iron first, then outlet. Remove from outlet first, then from plug. If cord gets too hot, have iron and cord inspected immediately. DISCONNECT IRON WHEN YOU LEAVE ROOM.

Do not iron over buttons or other hard objects.

Keep bottom clean. When iron is cool, wipe with damp cloth. If necessary use soap suds or mild cleanser first. Never scrape or dip in water.

After iron cools, put it away where it won't gather dust.

Do not over-heat iron. Have right temperature for each garment.

Do not press down. Heat—not pressure—smooths clothes.

Do not drop iron. This is how most damage occurs.

Mokena

Mrs. Ray Geiser is spending a few months with her husband Pfc. Ray Geiser in Austin Texas. He formerly was from Mokena.

The torrid Paperhangers in their lead to three full games as they swept all the games from the tailenders, the Smokers. The V-Eighters gained second place as they kept pace with the Paperhangers while the Mokena Oilers dropped to third when they lost two games to the Robins.

More about those Persistent Paperhangers. What I mean by persistent is that this gas house gang is out to win the league championship by good bowling and verbal blasting all opposition into submission. The good bowling was furnished by Rudy Marschke's 625 series and 265 game Geo. Rinke's 188 and Andy Buschel's 190 game. The verbal blasting by Rudy Marschke and Geo. Rinke. What a combination. The team is almost unbeatable. The opposition will have to devise a counter attack. The pepped up V-Eighters had to rally in the later stages of the last game from the Bankers. The V-Eighters bowled a consistent game throughout and managed to keep pace with the leaders. Looks like the Paperhanger jesters Rinke and Marschke threw a monkey wrench into the Oilers machine as they could not sustain a consistent attack so lost two games to the Robins. By losing two the Oilers dropped to third place four games out of the lead. Next Monday nite the Paperhangers roll the Bankers, the V-Eighters battle the Oilers for second place and the Robins take on the Smokers.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Mind" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 20.

The Golden Text was, "Behold, God is mighty, and despoiseth not any; he is mighty in strength and wisdom" (Job 36: 5).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Who hath directed the Spirit of the Lord, or being his counsellor hath taught him? With whom took he counsel and who instructed him, and taught him in the path of judgment, and taught him knowledge, and shewed to him the way of understanding? ... Great is our Lord, and of great power; his understanding is infinite" (Isa. 40: 13, 14; Ps. 147: 5).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The everlasting I AM is not bounded nor compressed within the narrow limits of physical humanity, nor can He be understood aright through mortal concepts. ... Infinite Mind is the creator, and creation is the infinite image or idea emanating from this Mind. If Mind is within and without all things, then all is Mind; and this definition is scientific" (p. 256, 257).

Methodist Men meet the last Friday of the month at 8 P. M. in the church. Our men are taking a greater interest than ever in the affairs of the church.

Come to church Sunday and bring a friend, the 27th of Feb. at 10:45 A. M. All men and women of our church are asked to get in on this and see to it that every last member of the church is present on that day with as many of their friends as possible. There will be a fitting program for that occasion. R. J. L. McKelvey, D. D. Pastor

CHRISTIAN FISHERMEN Tinley

The Friday night service will be held at the home of Mrs. Hazel Fowler, 17721 Otto Ave. Tinley at 8 p.m. Mr. Stanley Lunl, Evangelist from Markham will be the speaker.

We are glad to welcome the two new members who have joined our group and we are rejoicing in the Lord that they have accepted Him as their Saviour and have been born again. As the Scripture tells us in 1 Peter 1:23 "Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of uncorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever."

God tells us that we have all sinned and gone short of the glory of God but by His precious blood shed on Calvary we are saved. We are rejoicing this week over the fact that four of our members have definitely taken their stand against the world as true Christians to serve only God. Mark 16:15-16: "And He said to them, Go ye unto all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptised shall be saved. But he that believeth not shall be damned."

WHAT was the greatest Notre Dame team? The Four Horsemen? Rockne's masterpiece of 1930? Or Frank Leahy's 1943 squad with Bertelli on the job?

Here's the opening argument—

"Dear Grant: They are saying the 1943 N. D. team was a better aggregation than the undefeated fighting Irish of 1930. Those who do overlook the fact that the latter outfit had the coaching benefit of the daddy-stirrer-upper of 'em all—the best damned coach that ever lived, Rock, himself! In battle, Grant, between these two teams, how much of a factor would having Rock on your bench figure in the final outcome? I should say plenty, the fact that Frank Leahy's an inspirational leader and a brilliant strategist, himself, notwithstanding. But Rock was Rock, that's all. And that means the best."

"I think another proof of the 1930 team's greatness is the fact that I can remember names from it. And I'm not a Notre Dame man, nor rooster. I generally root for the N. D.'s to get it in the neck. The little guy, the underdog, always finds favor with me. But I can remember the many nominees for All-America mention from that team; the guards, Bert Metzger and Cannon, Tommy Yarr, the center, the great tackles, Joe Kurth and Harris, and Philadelphia's Tom Conley, the captain and end. The other end has bowed to memory, but I know he was a dandy."

"But the backs! Frank Carideo, a Mills' pupil, and one of the greats of all time, certainly would give his team a vast edge in this department. Marty Brill, with Earl Brittain of Illinois, will go down in history among the great blocking backs. Joe Savoldi was a human battering ram, while Marchy Schwarz was the breakaway guy who could do more than his share of breaking away. Chuck Jackwich, Bucky O'Connor, and Moon Mullins were other fine backs and important cogs in Rock's mighty machine."

"This present team would have it over Rock's outfit in the passing department with the Accurate Angelo heaving the leather. Schwarz and Carideo were no more than fair fingers for Rock, but they seldom had to be, what with the overland game so profitable. Rock's line could invent the holes! And there is recent proof that a line of such caliber might completely nullify Angelo's fine passing game."

"I'll take Rock's boys, Grant, of the two. And you?"

"Very truly yours,
"George E. Heiser."

A Few Words in Rebuttal

I'm sorry, George, but I'll have to string with Frank Leahy's 1943 squad with Bertelli in action.

To me the Four Horsemen outfit, with a backfield averaging 159 pounds, plus a rather light line were the all-top and all-time artists. Pound for pound. But they lacked the needed poundage. Here's the answer. Red Blaik and other Army coaches will tell you and prove they could handle the older Notre Dame attack. Army outplayed Notre Dame badly the day Jack Elder ran 95 yards for the winning touchdown—and Savoldi was there. In 1930, Notre Dame beat a fair Army team 7 to 6.

The 1943 Army team was far better than the 1930 Army team. Yet it is my belief that with Bertelli faking and passing and running his squad, Notre Dame could have beaten Army 40 to 0, or worse.

Don't forget this 1943 Notre Dame team ran up over 80 points on fine Navy and Georgia Tech teams, which Bill Alexander and Billek Wheelchel will tell you could have been 60 to 0 in each game, going all the way out.

"Army teams could hold the Rockne attack to small scores," Red Blaik told me. "We couldn't hold this 1943 team to any small score, even with Bertelli missing. They hit us with too much speed and power at too many spots."

The 1943 N. D. team had a bigger, faster line. It had much bigger, faster ends. It had a much better backfield with Bertelli, Creighton Miller, Rykovich, Mello, Kelly, and several others.

And it had that smoothly clicking, devastating T-formation, hitting the opposition like a bazooka shell.

Bertelli Most Dangerous

Above all—in Bertelli 1943 Notre Dame had a quarterback far more dangerous on the scoring side than Carideo ever came close to being.

It is my belief that Notre Dame's 1943 team, with Bertelli in action, could have beaten the 1930 team by two or three touchdowns and wrecked the Four Horsemen through a surplus of power, deception and passing. I doubt before Bertelli left that any 1943 pro team could have beaten it—and the pros in general, are well ahead of the collegians."

Washington, D. C.

FOOD AND THE WAR

Assistant President Jimmy Byrnes called a meeting of the War Mobilization committee the other day to discuss the vital question of food for 1944. In preparation for the meeting, War Food Administrator Marvin Jones had his staff prepare a lengthy report on food prices, farm labor, machinery and other phases of the farm problem.

This report was distributed before the meeting so that members of the War Mobilization committee would have time to study it, but it soon became apparent that genial Judge Jones had not read carefully his own report—if at all.

When he began to talk about the drastic need of farm machinery and the restrictions on its production, WPB's Donald Nelson quickly picked him up. Obviously, Nelson had read Jones' report and had some facts of his own to refute it. He pointed out that the only thing getting a higher priority than farm machinery on the war production schedule was the landing craft program, and that the President had ordered landing barges placed ahead of everything else.

"You wouldn't put farm machinery ahead of landing barges, would you?" asked Nelson.

"Well, it won't do 'em any good to land if they haven't got food," replied Jones.

Undersecretary of War Patterson also tangled briskly with Jones over farm deferments. Patterson pointed out that there were 750,000 boys between 18 and 21 with permanent draft deferments because they were farmers.

"This is greater than all the other deferments of the entire country," said the undersecretary of war, adding that, while agriculture should be in a preferred position, it should not be a "haven for draft dodgers."

"Well, the army's got to have food, doesn't it?" replied Jones.

HOG MERRY-GO-ROUND

Hog farmers all over the country are dizzy over conflicting directives from Washington. A farmer turns on his radio one morning and learns that Washington wants him to feed hogs heavy. Next, he is asked to market them lean. Next, just as he is snatching the extra corn from the pigs, a hurry call comes from Washington to feed 'em fat again.

Farmers are thinking of staging a little satire to express their feelings. Entitled "Make Up Your Mind, Washington," it has the following chorus:

"How can a man know what you mean,

Whether a hog shall be fat or lean? Make up your mind and stick to that,

Whether a hog shall be lean or fat!"

However, the situation is not entirely the fault of the bureaucrats. In normal times, 225 pounds is a good average weight for hogs. The American market likes its bacon lean. But for lend-lease purposes, extra production was required, especially to supply lard for the Soviets. So farmers were implored to feed to heavy weights.

Came the corn shortage, and farmers were implored to stop feeding, market their hogs, and release the corn for shipment to dairy and poultry areas. Each change was implemented by shifts in the federal price supports.

But the hog run became phenomenal. January's slaughter broke all records. Hogs became a glut on the market. Farmers couldn't get near the slaughter houses. They had to keep on feeding. Hogs automatically got heavier, at the rate of 15 pounds a week.

But if they got over 300 pounds, they passed the support level, and the packers docked them. Fearing to lose money, farmers jammed their hogs into market channels, and the run became chaotic.

So now Washington has swung back again, and is inviting farmers to feed to heavier weights. The support price has been extended to 330 pounds.

Note: Probably no decision of War Food administration was made with greater reluctance, and the support price will be reduced again as soon as the hog run tapers off.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Washington real estate agents are evading price ceilings by requiring new tenants to decorate apartments at their own expense. . . . To pack 'em in tighter, a Washington bus driver called out, "Push to the back, folks, and get together like you were in church."

Ed Stettinius, undersecretary of state, discovered that ambassadors returning to Washington had no space in the state department building. With one phone call, he fixed up a suite of six rooms.

Sen. Ralph Brewster of Maine, a dry, used to have a hard time refusing drinks at capital cocktail parties. "But now," he says, "with liquor so scarce, I'm the most popular man at the party!"

British embassy officials, mindful of food and liquor shortages here, are avoiding the usual diplomatic entertaining.

Dwarf Fruit Trees Suited to Gardens

Smaller Plants Produce More; Easy to Handle

While dwarfing of fruit trees is a common practice in Europe, there has been comparatively little interest in this practice in this country, says W. L. Howard, a University of California professor of pomology. In "Home Fruit Growing in California" he outlines the advantages of this method of cultivation in small orchards and home gardens.

Europeans, he says, have perfected special methods of training known as espalier and cordon, with numerous variations, which cause the trees so treated to be smaller than normal. Climatic conditions of western and southern Europe are very well adapted to fruit growing, and the people as a whole are far more garden-minded than we are. Since, however, land is scarce and the average citizen with a tiny garden wants to grow as many things as possible, dwarf fruit trees seem to have been the answer.

Small Deciduous Trees.

Most if not all of our deciduous trees are reduced below their normal size in three general ways: by heavy pruning, especially in summer; by partially starving the roots by confining them in pots or boxes; or by grafting them upon the roots of other trees that naturally grow more slowly or remain smaller. The use of dwarf or partially dwarfing stocks is the method chiefly employed both here and abroad, although careful pruning is important in holding down excessive wood growth and in keeping dwarfed trees both small and fruitful.

Although pears are commonly grown as dwarfs in this country, dwarf apples are seldom seen. In Europe peach trees are reduced in size in order to adapt them to cold foggy climates by growing them against walls or under glass. The small need for such special-purpose trees in this country accounts for their scarcity.

Dwarfing a tree is popularly supposed to shorten its life. This is not necessarily true, although in practice dwarf trees are often permitted to overbear and consequently do not live so long as they might otherwise do. Under expert management such as English and French gardeners give their trees, dwarf pears, for example, may live to an age of 75 years.

Dwarf Apples.

The Paradise apple, a natural dwarf, serves as a stock for reducing the size of any variety of apple grafted upon it. On this stock, trees may be so much reduced in size that they can be grown in 10- or 12-inch flower pots. If planted in the ground they will range in height from three to six feet, the height depending upon the variety. The training they receive—that is, the kind of pruning—has much to do with their size. The Doucin apple is a natural half-dwarf. Varieties grafted upon that root attain about half their normal size.

Dwarf apples are trained to various shapes. The young trees are often set two or three feet apart and made fast to a three-wire trellis for no particular purpose except the ornamental effect they give. They are generally tilted over at an angle of about 65 degrees and kept pruned to a system of spurs. They will begin bearing the second year. This is a favorite method of training in the English fruit gardens, but the trees require much detailed attention. It would be safer for the amateur to set them about four feet apart.

Dwarf apple trees usually bear too heavily but, if judiciously thinned, will produce larger fruit than the same variety does on standard roots. Even with only fair treatment, dwarf apples should live for 25 years, provided they are kept fertilized, are properly pruned, and are not allowed to overbear—the last being the most important. Under ideal conditions they will live much longer.

Contact lenses, the kind which fit right over the eyeball, are not a modern invention. Aristocrats of France wore these during the 17th century to make their eyes appear larger and more attractive.

Convicted French royalists frequently escaped detection and the guillotine through use of these lenses—brown eyes became blue overnight through artistry of the glass blower.

"I WAS CONSTIPATED FOR MANY YEARS!"

Now I'm 'Regular' Every Morning!"

Constipated? Then here's an unsolicited letter you'll want to read: "I'd been troubled with common constipation for many years. Was taking laxatives and pills all the time, and feeling very weak and run down. 3 months ago, I began eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily. Now, I have a regular, natural movement every morning, which helps me feel my best!" Mr. Samuel D. Blank, 292 Kings Highway, Brooklyn, New York.

What is this seeming magic of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN? Scientists say it's because KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can really "get at" a common cause of constipation—namely, lack of sufficient "cellulose" elements in the diet. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements, which help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't work by "sweeping out." It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If you have constipation of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't find lasting relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.
